

NINDS CDE Notice of Copyright
Galveston Orientation and Amnesia Test (GOAT)

Availability:	The instrument is freely available here: Galveston Orientation and Amnesia Test Link.
Classification:	Supplemental for Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI)
Short Description of Instrument:	The Galveston Orientation Amnesia Test (GOAT) can be administered to assess the duration of post-traumatic amnesia, including ten items on recovery of orientation to person, place, and time. The duration of retrograde and anterograde amnesia can be assessed. The test takes 5-10 minutes to administer and is appropriate for ages 16 and older. The GOAT should be administered by a health service provider.
Scoring:	The maximum raw score is 100. T-scores and percentiles are available.
References:	Levin, H., O'Donnell, V., and Grossman, R. (1979). The Galveston Orientation and Amnesia Test. A practical scale to assess cognition after head injury. J Nerv Ment Dis 167(11), 675-684.